This week's brown bag features two current fellows. Caroline Douglas (Fedwa Multi-Douglas Short-Term Fellow) who comes to us from Royal College of Art (RCA) and The Glasgow School of Art (GSA) will discuss “Elizabeth Fulhame and the Chemical Networks of Early Photography.” And, Arlene Leis (Edward C. Carter II Short-Term Fellow), an art historian with a Ph.D. from the University of York, will share her project, “Belvedere of San Leucio: 18th and 19th Century Italian Silk in Local and Global Contexts.”

This will be a hybrid event, taking place in the Library Board Room and via Zoom for those who wish to participate remotely. Join via Zoom here.

If you wish to attend in-person and are not current APS staff or fellow, please email bholland@amphilsoc.org.
