Tapestry – 'Resonance' 2009
172 x 104cm

OUTPUT

This output comprises:

- New body of work and production of exhibition catalogue as a result of receiving funding awards from Scottish Arts Council, Theo Moorman Trust for Weavers and Inches Carr Trust
- Invitation from Scottish Gallery, Edinburgh for solo exhibition
- Subsequent showings: exhibitions in 8 galleries in UK & USA
- 3 peer review articles
- 2 book sections
- 5 catalogues

Research for this exhibition involved:

- Study trip to Cairo to observe Coptic tapestries in Coptic Museum, plus traditional weaving workshop, Harrania, Egypt
- Learning & application of photoshop skills to assist design of tapestries

Research questions asked:

- How does the use of digital tools at the design stage of the working process translate into the hand woven making stage?
- Is it possible to capture the spontaneity of a graphic drawn line & layered painted marks in the slow, traditional construction technique of Gobelin tapestry weaving?

CONTEXT

Current practice in the field of tapestry weaving finds itself falling into one of three major methods of design & manufacture.

1. Studio weaving

Skilled craftspeople handweaving artists designs eg Tracey Emin at West Dean Studio, UK

<http://www.westdean.org.uk/Tapestry/Showcase/Tracey%20Emin%20Four>

2. Machine manufacture

Digital jacquard looms producing artists editions eg Chuck Close at Magnolia Editions, USA

<http://www.magnoliaeditions.com/artists/chuck-close/?filter=Tapestry>

3. Individual artist weavers

Artists working from their own studios producing one-off hand woven tapestries from their designs.

Jennie Moncur

British tapestry artist, Jennie Moncur, creates hand-woven contemporary tapestry wall-hangings for exhibition and to commission. Her art involves the use of "jacquard" compositions in lush colour, which draw out the character of her highly skilled use of traditional "Gobelin" weaving techniques.

CONTEXT

My work falls into category 3 (previous page).

It is important to me that the work is designed and made by the artist; for the work to have creative integrity. It is also important to exhibit alongside contemporaries whose professional practice aligns with my own and whose creative philosophy contain the intellectual rigour that I respect. For example, within the field of tapestry weaving:

Sara Brennan. The work is minimalist referencing artists such as Barnett Newman and Rothko. Often producing series of works which nudge subtle colour palettes of dark and light tonal areas, creating tensions between notional sections of land, sky and

...iously non specific

Susan Mowatt currently focuses particularly on the process of weaving itself. the importance of making, connectivity to materials and experiencing the 'flow'. Working with fragments and lines of weaving she re-assembles them and creates large and small scale installations.

Sue Lawty explores the links between contemporary use of unconventional materials and traditional practice. Constructed pieces - tapestries, assemblages, and drawings in two and three dimensions - are abstract and minimal. They explore repetition and interval; investigating territories of expression in raphia, hemp, linen, lead, tiny stones or shadow.

CONTEXT

Whilst my work remains 2 dimensional, textile artist colleagues whose work I respect, working in 3 dimensions, have also been co-exhibitors.

Anna Ray has a multidisciplinary textile approach, embracing traditional methods of making employing embroidery and drawing techniques in a wide range of materials whilst also using digital technology. Her work explores psychological and physical Deirdre Nelson . Research, humour and a wide range of 'craft' techniques – including knitting, embroidery, lacemaking – contribute to projects dealing with social and environmental issues, whilst also engaging communities in the process.

CONTEXT

Traditionally, tapestry designs have taken the form of drawings, paintings or photographs which are translated into woven images.

I was interested to incorporate digital skills into this stage of the process – an area under-explored at this time in the field – and further, to explore the potential of capturing the vibrancy of digital-screen colour luminosity in the subsequent translation into weaving with yarns.

The funding awards (p1) resulted in the body of work created for the solo exhibition “Jo Barker - Tapestries” at the Scottish Gallery Edinburgh in 2009, plus the production of a full colour catalogue.

METHODOLOGY

Drawings, collages, paintings and photographs were developed from selected primary research which were manipulated & further refined in Photoshop.

In this case the starting point was a study visit to Cairo, in particular qualities of fleeting light filtered through wooden Mashrabiya screens. These were combined with gestural drawn marks; pools & hazes of watercolour paint.

Above: Photoshop development work

All images: designs in progress, from sketchbooks, photos, paintings to digital manipulations. An intuitive response is employed at each stage of development until a suitable conclusion is reached.

METHODOLOGY

Designs were scaled up to larger dimensions to suit a gallery setting and translated into woven tapestries using wool, cotton, linen and silk yarns.

In particular the method of weaving employs the use of fine gauge yarns to mix subtle combinations of tones & blends of colours in order to create the illusion of layers of painted or drawn marks.

This process is slow. Larger works take 8 -12 weeks to complete.

“...there is increasing awareness and appreciation that time spent on thinking through making creates something of particular value & quality in our contemporary world.”

25+ Years of International Art Textiles and Sculpture Will Be Celebrated this Fall with an Exhibition and Catalog at browngrotta arts in Wilton CT; Opening October 27th

Work by dozens of artists from the US and abroad will be featured in "Retro/Prospective: 25+ Years of International Art Textiles and Sculpture," a catalog exhibition, that opens at browngrotta arts in Wilton, Connecticut on October 27th.

Wilton, CT (PRWEB) August 14, 2012

This fall, browngrotta arts of Wilton, Connecticut will present a catalog exhibition, "Retro/Prospective: 25+ Years of Art Textiles and Sculpture" from October 26th to November 4, 2012. The exhibition will commemorate browngrotta arts' 25 years promoting international contemporary art. The comprehensive exhibition will look to the past and into the future. "The works included in "Retro/Prospective: 25+ Years of Art Textiles and Sculpture" will reflect the origins of the contemporary textile art and sculpture movement," says Tom Grotta, founder and co-curator at browngrotta arts. "There will also be current work by established and emerging artists, to explain where the movement is now and to predict what's ahead."

The artists in "Retro/Prospective: 25+ Years of Art Textiles and Sculpture" come from a wide range of countries and art backgrounds. They utilize diverse materials and techniques. Some, like Lia Cook and Gyöngyi Laky from the US, are mid-career artists who have achieved international recognition. Others, like Laura Thomas of the UK, Jennifer Fack Linsen and Randy Walker of the US and recent graduates Stephanie Jacques of Belgium, are emerging talents.
