

Organised by Global History & Culture Centre
Supported by AHRC Science in Culture research award

The War of the Locust, 1940-45: An interdisciplinary workshop

At the height of the Second World War, the British Empire launched an ambitious campaign to eradicate locusts in East Africa, South Asia and the Middle East.

This workshop brings together an historian, an entomologist, an artist and an ecologist to discuss their collaborative research on this campaign and the challenges of interdisciplinary work.

12-3.30pm, IAS seminar room, Millburn House
Friday 8 December 2017
Lunch provided, all welcome

Global History & Culture Centre

The University of Warwick
Coventry CV4 7AL United Kingdom
Tel :02476 523350
Email: Amy.Evans@warwick.ac.uk

Arts & Humanities
Research Council

Global History & Culture Centre
2007-2017: 10th ANNIVERSARY
AT THE UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK